THE LATEST.

In a dispatch to the Chicago Times-Record Walter Wellman says that the United States and Great Britain have reached an agreement concerning the Isthmian Canal, and that the new treaty embodying the agreement will soon be in the hands of President Roosevelt. It is believed that the objections urged to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty are met by the new one, which provides that the canal shall be neutral, with its neutrality guaranteed by the United States alone, but that in case of war the United States may take such steps as it deems proper for its own protection.

AGREEMENT

Reached On Isthmian Canal Question.

A TREATY ARRANGED

Between the United States and Great Britain.

A NEUTRAL WATERWAY.

THIS COUNTRY IS TO HAVE ENTIRE CONTROL.

APPROVED BY PRESIDENT.

Believed That the Objections to the Old Hay-Pauncefote Treaty Are Removed.

A TRIUMPH FOR HAY.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The Record-Herald this (Monday) morning prints the following from Washington by Walter Wellman:

Washington, Oct. 6.—The United States and Great Britain have reached an agreement concerning the Isthmian Canal question, and the new treaty will be presented to the Senate for its ratification early in the coming session. I am now able to give the substance of this treaty. It provides:

First—For abrogation of the old Clayton-Bulwer treaty in toto.

Second—For a neutral Isthmian Canal in case one is constructed by the United States, open in time of peace to the ships of all nations upon equal terms.

Third—This neutrality is guaranteed by the United States alone, and other maritime Powers are not invited to participate in such guarantee. Great Britain is inferentially one of the guarantors because she is a party to this treaty.

Fourth—In case of war the United States reserves the right to take such steps for its own protection as it may deem proper.

Meets Objections.

It will be seen that the new treaty meets the principal objections which were offered to the old Hay-Pauncefote convention, and which led to its rejection by the Senate.

While the principle of neutrality is asserted, the United States alone guarantees that neutrality, and no European Powers are invited to give their assent to it. It was this feature more than any other which led to the defeat of the former treaty. Many Senators were willing to join with Great Britain in a guarantee of the neutrality of the proposed new waterway, because England already enjoyed certain treaty rights upon the isthmus. But they were decidedly unwilling to invite other European nations to give their assent.

Those nations had no standing in the case, and it was deemed most unwise to invite them to participate in a purely American affair, with which they had no direct concern.

To Be All-American.

By the terms of the new treaty, the United States may, in time of war, deal with the canal as it deems best for its own interests. It may close the canal to the ships of its enemies, and could, if it were thought advisable (which no one believes it ever will be) fortify the canal or its termini.

In the broad sense, the Isthmian waterway is to be "all-American." The United States is to build it and to have complete control of it, unhampered by onerous restrictions.

Great Britain's Liberal Spirit.

The Government of Great Britain has met this question in a liberal spirit. It has assumed that it was its duty to place no unnecessary obstacles in the way of a work promising so much of importance and value to the commercial world.

It has proceeded upon the principle that the canal is built for commerce, not for war, and that a guarantee of neutrality is, after all, the most important consideration.

On this point the United States and Great Britain were able to agree, because the United States has never sought the right to fix preferential tolls in favor of American commerce.

Victory Over the Opposition.

Not even the Senators who defeated the Hay-Pauncefote treaty contended for that. They were willing the canal should be thrown open to commerce on equal terms, realizing that the economic advantages must necessarily accrue principally to the United States on account of the geographic situation.

The British statesmen who had to deal with this problem quickly perceived that any insistence upon an in-

DURBIN INVESTIGATING KENTUCKY JURY SYSTEM

Governor of Indiana Sends An Agent To Look Into the Methods In Vogue.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Among the letters that Gov. Durbin has received from persons protesting against the extradition of W. S. Taylor and Charles Finley, of Kentucky, are a number which charge that the refugees could not get a fair trial because the system under which juries are impaneled in Kentucky enables the authorities to select a jury prejudiced in favor of or against the defendant as may be desired. It is charged that while the law on its face is fair it is unfair in practice and that Taylor and Finley, no matter how innocent of the crime with which they are charged, would certainly be convicted.

The representations have so impressed the Governor that he has sent an agent to Kentucky to investigate the methods of drawing and impaneling juries in that State, and has charged him to make the investigation thorough and report the facts fully as he finds them. The Governor's agent will keep his mission secret, and only the persons he consults in Kentucky will know what the investigations are for. It is said that the Governor's agent is a lawyer and well equipped for the mission he has undertaken to perform.

Gov. Durbin may send Merrill Moores, Deputy Attorney General of Indiana, to make the investigation. That it will be Mr. Moores is only a surmise, but the information comes from a reliable source. It is said prominent Republicans will meet the man sent and afford him every facility for learning the truth about the jury system.

Gov. Durbin, it is said, believes that if the bi-partisan method of selecting juries in Indiana was in vogue in Kentucky there would be less hesitancy in sending Taylor and Finley back for trial.

ceived that any insistence upon an international guarantee of neutrality in time of war must surely come to nothing, as it was a concession which the people of the United States would never assent to.

If England insisted upon that, the chances were the canal would be built without reference to her treaty rights in any way. By standing out for everything she would gain nothing and less all.

Ambassador Choate will bring to the United States a draft of the new treaty and President Roosevelt will soon have it in his hands. The President will be able to discuss it in his forthcoming message to Congress. He warmly approves it. It meets almost exactly the principles for which he contended a year ago. He never opposed neutrality, providing it did not bind the hands of the United States in time of war. He never insisted upon fortifications. He never advocated preferential tariffs.

Will Be Approved.

There can be little or no doubt that the new treaty will be approved by the American press and people, and that it will be confirmed by the Senate. During the first sixty days of the coming session all treaty obstacles to the passage of an Isthmian Canal Bill should be removed.

This is the result for which Secretary of State Hay long has labored. He did not succeed a year ago because of unexpected opposition to certain features of the treaty which he had negotiated.

Personal Victory For Hay.

Instead of sulking in his tent he cheerfully accepted the popular judgment and went on with his work, showing no narrow pride of opinion, but to the contrary the breadth and strength of a public servant who was sincerely anxious to serve his country. In this sense the outcome now seemingly so well assured will be a personal victory for him. His name will be linked to one of the greatest treaties of modern times.

A Generous Spirit.

Great Britain has met the United States more than half-way in these negotiations, without any pledge or understanding whatsoever as to the Alaskan boundary or any other question in dispute between the two nations. The canal problem was considered and acted upon solely upon its own merits.

This report is one of the principal bones of contention in the present General Conference. The majority report of the committee, signed by Dr. Morgan Dix, as chairman, goes on to say that in its judgment no successful action can be had in amending the Constitution of the United States so as to make uniform the law of marriage and divorce in the United States, and that the only practical way toward securing such uniformity should be sought through the action of similar laws by the several States.

In the House of Deputies the discussion of Dr. Huntington's amendment to the constitution in regard to special forms of service to be revised by canon for certain classes of congregations, not in full communion with the church, will be continued. Some able speeches are expected.

FAYETTE REPUBLICANS CHARGED WITH DEAL.

Judge George Denny, Jr., Accuses Committee of Selling Nomination For County Clerk To Democrats.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—In the Republican convention held in this city to nominate county officers, Judge George Denny, Jr., a leading Republican, charged that the Republican committee had sold the nomination for County Clerk for $2,700. He modified his statements, however, by saying that it was rumored that the Democratic candidate, R. L. Baker, had paid the committee that amount to prevent opposition.

Both Committees Fought and Thomas L. Walker denounced the statements. Judge Denny was working for the nomination of a former Democrat, C. C. Chinn, whose accounts were pronounced about $15,000 short by State Inspector Hines, and whose office has been for some months in the hands of his bonds-men, who are taking the proceeds to make good the money paid by them to the State.

Chinn declares he will run as an independent candidate.

LAST TRIBUTE

Paid to Memory of President McKinley By Ohioans In Washington.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The sons and daughters of the late President McKinley's native State of Ohio, who are now residents of Washington, to-day paid a last public tribute to the memory of their dead Congressman, Governor and President in a largely-attended meeting at Chase's Opera-house. The gathering was held under the auspices of the Ohio Republican Association, but was not confined to Ohioans. About 3,000 persons were present. The decorations were appropriate to the occasion. The Marine Band furnished the music, and was stationed on the stage, directly under a large crayon portrait of President McKinley, which was draped in graceful folds of black, the whole surrounded by an immense American flag.

San Francisco, Oct. 6.—The Right Rev. Alfred Willis, Bishop of Honolulu, has arrived here to attend the Episcopal convention. He comes in response to an invitation from the church authorities for the purpose of discussing the change in jurisdiction which the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States makes necessary.

Fred Gebhard Sues For Divorce In South Dakota.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 6.—Fred Gebhard, of New York City, who took up his residence in Sioux Falls last April, has filed in the State Circuit Court here a suit for an absolute divorce on the ground of desertion.

The defendant before marriage was Miss Louise Morris, of Baltimore.

WAR COMEDY.

Castro Claims That Peace Reigns In Venezuela.

BLAMES THE UNITED STATES

FOR THE RUMORS OF TROUBLE WITH COLOMBIA.

BECOMES LAUGHING STOCK.

Berlin Papers Call Him the Modern Falstaff and Ridicule His Wild Statements.

TO THE GERMAN GOVERNMENT.

Berlin, Oct. 6.—The Hamburgische Correspondent publishes the surprising statement that the Venezuelan consul in Hamburg, whose authority is the Venezuelan Minister in Paris, declares the reports of war and revolution from South America to be false, and alleges that peace is undisturbed, adding that President Castro believes such rumors are spread by the United States in order to sidetrack European interests likely to be obstructive to the endeavors of the United States in South America.

The German press is generally sarcastic in dealing with the subject. The Lokai Anzeiger, under the caption "A War Comedy," says:

While the Boers are fighting desperately, across the Atlantic a military-political comedy is being performed. War was declared, and the Venezuelan Minister in Paris was ordered to explain to Europe.

Modern Falstaff.

While it is true that the American press is inclined to mislead Europe regarding Western affairs, it must be remembered that President Castro's attack was reported by the Venezuelan Minister in Paris. The latest dispatches show this was only the imagination of the American reporters, and that not a shot had been fired.

The National Zeitung says:

For a fortnight the world was under the impression that a Venezuelan invasion was in progress in Central and South America. The latest dispatches show this was only the imagination of the American reporters, and that not a shot had been fired.

No Money On Hand.

The committee was also made aware of the fact that the American Board has no money with which to save Miss Stone. The only practical way, therefore, was shown to be a popular subscription, which already has been started.

The committee heartily approved this and began sending telegrams to many parts of the country urging that the subscriptions be secured at once. The committee says that in view of the spirit with which the appeal is made there is strong grounds for the hope that the amount will be obtained speedily. In every possible way the American Board will cooperate both by gift and by solicitation.

AFRAID TO GO TO WAR.

Castro Would Not Have Support of the Nationalists.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Saturday, Oct. 5.—To-day a representative of the Associated Press interview Dr. Alejandro Urbaneja, President of the Executive Committee of the Venezuelan Nationalist revolutionary party, regarding the political situation. Dr. Urbaneja is the virtual leader of the party and the personal representative of "El Mocho," Gen. Hernandez. He was a cabinet minister under former President Crespo and is a prominent lawyer.

To-day he is in exile in Curacao.

"The Nationalists until the present time," said Dr. Urbaneja, "have passively witnessed President Castro's attitude and actions toward Colombia, but they are now compelled to protest against them. Neither the Nationalists nor the country at large have ever sustained the actions of Castro, actions which now promise international war. The Nationalists do not desire war with a sister-republic, nor would they follow Castro in such a year. On the contrary, in full communion with the country at large, would refuse to participate.

"I do not think President Castro will declare war against Colombia. Neither do I believe in the possibility of the reconstruction of Gran Colombia by force of arms."

FATHER KENNEDY DYING AT TRAPPIST MONASTERY.

Noted Brooklyn Priest Said To Be On His Deathbed At Gethsemane.

New York, Oct. 6.—According to dispatch received in Brooklyn, the Rev. T. J. Kennedy, formerly of St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church, in that borough, and well known in Grand Army circles throughout the country, is dying at the Trappist Monastery in Kentucky. He is a member of Notre Dame Post, Grand Army of the Republic, which is composed exclusively of priests who saw service in the Civil War. Father Kennedy was a member of the First New York volunteers, and was wounded severely. After the war he studied for a priest at the Holy Name University, and was ordained in Buffalo in 1872. About a year ago he was retired from active service.

MACEDONIANS PROTEST

Against the Persecution of Bulgarians By the Turks.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 6.—The Macedonian Revolutionary Committee has issued a resolution yesterday to protest against the persecution of Bulgarians in the district of Kastoria. Twenty thousand persons were present.

A resolution was adopted calling upon the Bulgarian Government to intervene at Constantinople for the protection of Bulgarians in Macedonia, and demanding that the great Powers enforce the Berlin treaty in order to avoid revolution.

TO ELECT WADE HAMPTON UNITED STATES SENATOR

Intimated That Mr. Tillman Approves of the Plan To Settle the Trouble In South Carolina.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Chairman Jones, of the Democratic State Committee, announces to-night his withdrawal from the senatorial race. In doing so he publicly urged that the other candidates, including Senators Tillman and McLaurin, take similar action, and that all join in supporting Gen. Wade Hampton for the place. This he declares will avert a bitter factional fight and may prevent the disruption of the party in the State. It is intimated that Senator Tillman approves of the plan.

Gen. Hampton, it is said, would not enter the race, and the only way that he could be chosen would be by a unanimous vote at the primary. To bring this about, Chairman Jones says, is his object.

ONE CHANCE OUT OF HOME.

To Save the Life of Miss Stone.

THE RANSOM MUST BE PAID.

PLAN FOR SECURING SUBSCRIPTIONS APPROVED

BY THE MISSION BOARD.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The urgency of the case of Miss Stone, the missionary held for ransom by brigands in Bulgaria, brought together the members of the Prudential Committee of the American Board for two hours to-day. Later the committee issued a statement based upon the views of President Samuel H. Capen, of the board, and the secretary, Rev. Dr. Judson Smith, as the result of their visit to Washington yesterday.

Both men had interviews with President Roosevelt and the officials of the State Department. It was made plain to them, they told the Prudential committee, that the only certain way to secure the release of Miss Stone and save her life would be the payment of the ransom. The committee was informed that the Government, by reason of constitutional restriction, is unable to pay the ransom.

The committee was also made aware of the fact that the American Board has no money with which to save Miss Stone. The only practical way, therefore, was shown to be a popular subscription, which already has been started.

The committee heartily approved this and began sending telegrams to many parts of the country urging that the subscriptions be secured at once. The committee says that in view of the spirit with which the appeal is made there is strong grounds for the hope that the amount will be obtained speedily. In every possible way the American Board will cooperate both by gift and by solicitation.

President McKinley was shot in Buffalo one month ago to-day. The United States to-day affords an object lesson to all the world. At no time was there a tremor in the machinery of the Government, and but one man remains to make the entire affair history. Few countries could have passed through a similar situation so creditably, none more so.

Yerkes Likely To Take the Stump.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes will leave for his home in Danville in about two weeks to remain until after the election. It is probable that he will make a few speeches during the last week of the campaign advocating the election of a Republican Legislature.

KENTUCKY ODD FELLOWS TO MEET IN LEXINGTON.

Annual Convention of the Grand Lodge of the State Will Convene Tuesday.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of Kentucky will meet in annual convention at Merriek Lodge hall in this city Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Representatives from 188 lodges throughout the State are expected, numbering in all about 300 men. E. B. Bailey is chairman of the Committee on Reception. A dinner will be given Tuesday to the visitors at the State Odd Fellows' Home on West Sixth street. State officers will be elected Wednesday.

Among the high officers of the lodge who will be here are: Thomas Reed, of Covington; Grand Master, A. D. Cole, of Mayville; Deputy Grand Master; W. L. Downs, of Carrollton; Grand Warden; R. G. Elliott, of Lexington; Grand Secretary; George W. Morris, of Louisville; Grand Treasurer; Thomas James, of Newport; and Claude Buckley, representative of the Sovereign, Grand Lodge, which meets in Des Moines, Ia., next September.

"A DEED OF HEROISM."

London Anarchists Celebrate the Assassination of President McKinley.

London, Oct. 7.—A fairly well attended meeting of anarchists was held yesterday in a hall in Tottenham Court road, London, to hear a lecture on the assassination of President McKinley by H. Kelly, of New York. The audience, largely composed of foreigners, applauded all references to "the saint" Czarism and his "meritorious" act.

The speakers included Enrico Malatesta, the Italian anarchist, who described the assassination as "a deed of heroism."

Kelly's lecture was a wild harangue in denunciation of Mr. McKinley's political career. He declared that they did not try to justify assassination, but rather to explain it as the outcome of "the oppression of workmen by capital."

"If the killing of McKinley opens the eyes of the capitalists and induces them to treat the working people better," cried the speaker, "then great good will have been done."

The standard, protesting editorially against the holding of the meeting, says:

We publish a report for the purpose of drawing attention to the criminal methods that are practiced in our very midst. It may be allowed that the form of Kelly's crime was vulgar abuse. Yet he went quite far enough to call for the notice of those whose duty it is to hold the balance of justice.

We do not want any Kelly among us, engaging in familiarizing Englishmen with such mischief. Society is entitled to protect itself against the teachers of these doctrines.

STOPPED BY POLICE.

Anarchist Celebration Broken Up In New York.

New York, Oct. 6.—One thousand alleged anarchists assembled in a hall in Fourth street, this city, to-night, ostensibly to hold a hall in honor of the organization of the Freiliberator Stomies, said to be a society composed of anarchists, but the nature of the assemblage was suspected by the manager of the hall, and in a short time forty policemen were on the scene under command of acting Captain Place. The manager learned that the meeting was really planned to hear John Most make a speech, but Most, while on his way to the hall, was warned away by members of the police, who were sent out to head him off when the police arrived on the scene.

The presence of the officers prevented any speech-making.

FRANK TAYLOR, OF LOUISVILLE, AND TWO COMPANIONS ARRESTED.

ONE, WOMAN IN DISGUISE.

Earlington Police Hold Prisoners For the Paducah Jewelry Robbery.

Earlington, Ky., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Frank Taylor, formerly of Louisville, was arrested here to-day with two companions, one of whom is a beautiful young woman in man's attire, and they are now in custody awaiting identification as the persons who committed the Paducah jewelry robbery a few days ago. The Chief of Police of Paducah will be here to-morrow to see if he can identify them.

The officers searched Taylor and found an express receipt dated October 4 for goods shipped to a point in the South. It is thought this package may contain the jewelry, and a part of it. He also has a book containing a memorandum of numerous rings, bracelets and other like articles.

One of the party at once impressed the officers as being a woman in disguise, and upon being questioned she admitted the fact and said she had been arrested several times before, but that her identity had not been discovered. She gives her name as Lizzie Thomas, of Bloomsburg, Pa., and says she left home because she was not treated well by her brothers and that her father is wealthy. The name of Lizzie Smith was found written on a leaf of Taylor's book, and this may be the girl's real name. She is unusually pretty and only about seventeen years old. She has light brown hair, cut short, blue eyes, full, round face and features and fine complexion. She is of medium height and weighs about 110 pounds. Another member of the party is named Thompson. He lives in Chillicothe, O. The third man is unknown, but he is not thought to have any connection with the Paducah robbery.

FLAG POLE

EFFECTIVELY USED BY AN AMERICAN IN VAULTING.

Duffy Tells the Story of Baxter's Tying an Englishman At the Paris Exposition.

"And Baxter tied that Englishman with a flag pole."

Arthur Duffy, the little Georgetown crack who on Saturday equaled the world's record for the 100 yards, was talking to a little group of athletes and newspaper men who had come out to see the track and field games at the Interstate Fair. Duffy was telling of the experience of the American athletes in England the summer of 1890.
To hear him, you would suppose that he had only been there as a spectator and had not shown his heels to the fastest of them in the 100.

One of the best of his stories was how Baxter tied in the pole vault.

"The fellows had been holding their own all right," said Duffy, "until it came to the pole vault. Then we found that Baxter's pole was not among our traps. There was only one thing to do and that was to make the Englishman enter against him for the loan of his pole.

"Well, sir, do you know he refused?

"I went up to him and said: 'What can you do?' 'Oh, about eleven feet,' he replied in an off-hand way. 'Well, there's no use in your making a play like this,'
I told him. 'Baxter can't do over 10.6, and you can lend him the pole, get a reputation for sportsmanship and win the event besides.'"

"Necessity the Mother, Etc.

"It wasn't a go, and Baxter was about to try a ten-foot high cross bar with nothing but his spiked shoes and muscles to put him over. We held a little consultation and then some one happened to see a long flag pole on one of the stands. In two minutes we had a rigger up there and Baxter was at work sharpening the end of the pole.

"The Englishman went over first and cleared the ten feet in good style. Then Baxter had his chance. His pole looked like those you see along railroads with telegraph lines trailing over it. He knew how to handle it just about as well. He started off, got about half way, lost his balance and fell over on his back. The English gave a whoop and the Americans groaned.

"He picked himself up and tried it over. This time he got up to within a few feet of the bars, attempted to make his jump and failed. He had one more chance. He came on with that pole, managed to get balanced, planted it in the ground and just cleared the bar. You never heard such a yell in your life. The bar was raised inch by inch and Baxter and the Englishman fought it out. Baxter was getting tired and it was just a question of how long he could stand the strain and how high the Englishman could go. Finally it was 10.9. The Englishman tried and failed. So did Baxter. They had two more jumps apiece, but neither man could make it.

"When the result was announced every American and a big lot of English among the spectators who knew good sport when they saw it gave Baxter a round of cheers that made the air heavy."

directors of the Water Company, they could make no change in the presidency of the institution. There are six directors of the Water Company—James S.
Barrett, P. Galt Miller, W. W. Smith, Charles R. Long, T. L. Burnett and John J. Schulten. All are Democrats.
If Messrs. Burnett and Schulten should be deposed, the Democrats would still have a majority of four to two in the directory and the election of Mr. Charles R. Long as President, which will be made to-day, would stand.

The Water Company has had Democratic directors for thirty odd years.
A Republican never was elected to the directory. Consequently, according to the Republicans' statement, their only desire to have representatives on the board, even though they are in the minority, is to give to the public a statement of the condition of the concern.
They claim the public has never known enough about the company's affairs, and since it is a public institution owned and operated by the city, the people should know more. The directors of the company have always been men of standing and influence in the city, and their acts have rarely been questioned.

Mr. Long Talks.

Mr. Long yesterday said there was no danger of directors, other than Messrs.
Burnett and Schulten, being seated.
"There is no hook or crook by which the Republicans can hope to seat their directors," said Mr. Long. "Messrs.
Schulten and Burnett were elected in the regular manner and according to the law. The law is on their side and they will be the directors."

Mr. Long spoke confidently and emphatically about the election of directors, and he was in his mind about the result of the controversy.

Mr. Doerhoefer Out.

Mr. Basil Doerhoefer's term as Sinking Fund Commissioner, according to his own contention, ended Saturday at midnight and he is no longer a member of the board. The board, as it is now made up, is composed of Mayor Weaver, P. Hooker Reed, F. Joseph Herrmann, C. C. Mengel and George T.
Wood.

Messrs. Reed, Mengel and Wood claim that they adjourned Saturday afternoon to meet this morning at 8 o'clock.
Messrs. Weaver, Herrmann and Doer-hoefer claim the adjournment was until Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. At that rate, Messrs. Reed, Mengel and Wood will assemble this morning at 8 o'clock and will instruct one of the three, possibly Mr. Reed, to cast their votes for Reed and Ballard for directors of the water company.

A formal entry of the names of the directors elected will be made on the books of the Sinking Fund Commissioners at 10 o'clock. Mr. Herrmann will cast the vote of the Democratic Commissioners for Mr. Schulten and Mr. Burnett, and Mr. Reed will cast three votes for himself and Mr. Ballard. At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the four will present their credentials as directors of the water company.

Suits To Follow.

Suit will be filed shortly in the Circuit Court by Mr. Mengel through his attorney, Mr. Augustus E. Willson, to test the legality of the meeting of the Democratic Commissioners Saturday afternoon. He will deny Mr. Doerhoefer's right to vote in the meeting. This will necessarily involve the question of who are the legal directors of the water company, and the Court of Appeals will finally determine whether Messrs.
Schulten and Burnett or Messrs. Ballard and Reed are directors of that company.

Lutheran Ministers Going To Indian- apolis.

The six Lutheran churches of Louisville will be represented at the Olive Branch Synod of the denomination at Indianapolis October 15. The local pastors—Drs. S. S. Walz, H. K. Penner, T.
A. Himes, F. A. Porth, G. M. Getter and
E. G. Howard—will go as delegates. Dr.
Walz said last night that the meeting was the regular annual session of the synod, and nothing but routine business is scheduled to come up.

Death of Railroad Man's Daughter.

Mr. G. L. Garrett, traveling passenger agent of the Henderson Route, yesterday lost by death his seventeen-months-old daughter, Elizabeth Talbot, who died at 5 o'clock a. m. The remains will be buried in Cave Hill cemetery at 11 o'clock this morning.

IN EARNEST. GREAT HALL
Democrats Organize In Every Precinct.
WARD RALLIES THIS WEEK.
POOR ATTENDANCE AT REPUB-LICAN MEETINGS.
REPORTS FROM THE STATE.
Before another week has passed the Democrats will have completed the best party organization they have had in Louisville for many years, and then they will be in readiness to conduct a winning fight. Last week the Campaign Committee devoted almost its entire time to rectifying the organization in the various wards and precincts.
Democrats in every walk of life are taking an interest in the campaign, and are rendering the Campaign Committee every assistance in getting the organization into shape.
The campaign has barely opened, but from now on until election day it will be prosecuted with the greatest vigor, and not a thing will be left undone that will help the party to victory. The Democrats are jubilant over the result of the registration, and they feel that if the campaign is properly conducted Mr. Grainger's majority as well as that of the entire ticket will be large. The increase of the Democratic vote and the falling off in the Republican vote indicates to the Democrats that the better class of Republicans will not vote for "Boss" Sapp's ticket.
Only two ward meets of any consequence have been held since the campaign opened, but the attendance at these is an indication of the interest people feel in the election. The meeting of the Bandana Club was one of the most enthusiastic that organization ever held, and the meeting of the three up-town clubs at Phoenix Hill Friday night was largely attended. In the audience were many men who had voted against the Democrats in past years, but who announced that they were for the entire ticket this year.
The Speakers' Committee of the Campaign Committee is arranging a schedule of speaking for this week and next, which will be announced today or to-morrow. About the only important rally so far announced is to be held by the Eighth and Ninth-ward Clubs at Seventh and Hill streets Wednesday night. The Democrats of these wards have organized a club with a membership of nearly 1,000, and they expect to double the membership before election day. At the rally Wednesday night a number of good speakers will be in attendance.
Republicans Show Little Interest.
The Republicans are showing a great deal of apathy in their campaign. They have had a number of rallies in different sections of the city, but for the most part they have been poorly attended, except in the negro sections.
It is said that Mr. Stratton is not stirring up the Republican hosts as was expected by his campaign managers, and it may be necessary to secure the services of a brass band to fill the halls. Mr. Stratton's attempt to give the Republicans credit for the present tax rate has not found much favor with those who thoroughly understand the situation. It was expected by the Republicans that this subject would be their most effective weapon against the Democrats, but on the contrary it has proved a boomerang, and will doubtless be dropped at an early date.
Democratic Gains In State.
Members of the State Campaign Committee have received reports of the results of registration from nearly every county in the State, and Chairman Mc-Cord is feeling good over the great gains made by the Democrats everywhere. He said yesterday that he felt more confident than ever of Democratic success. Everything is running along smoothly at the headquarters at Sealbach's, and the records received indicate that the State is being thoroughly organized.
Secretary Percy Hall arrived at headquarters yesterday and will remain until the campaign closes.

DUST FROM THE TANBARK.
In the success of the horse show last week was perhaps laid the corner-stone of a great public building for Louisville, where all events of proper magnitude may be held.
The structure now used and which was originally erected for the Confederate reunion in June, 1900, is on a lot owned by the Illinois Central Railroad Company, the association occupying it as tenants at will. The property is very valuable and the time can hardly be far distant when the railway company decides to make use of it in the way of putting up a larger union depot, or disposing of it at a handsome profit. When this day is at hand, if indeed not before, the horse show organization will either buy the lot or one quite as convenient, and erect thereon, with outside assistance, if necessary, a handsome brick building that will be a credit to Louisville, Kentucky and the South.
For Big Events.
This building will be somewhat on the order of Music Hall, Cincinnati, and within it the Louisville May Music Festival may give its concerts. The noted opera companies fill their engagements, seasons of summer opera be conducted, and an industrial fair be held and the annual horse show given.
To erect such a building it is probable that the Horse Show Association will join hands with the May Music festival organization and form a corporation.
Gen. John B. Castleman, President of the Horse Show Association, yesterday verified the rumor of a permanent brick building.
The Illinois Central owns the land," said Gen. Castleman, "which we now occupy as tenants at will. All officials of the road, from President Stuyvesant Fish down, have given us to understand that we will not be disturbed until the road needs the land. When that time comes this organization will be quite able to build another large hall—not only for tenants but for a great building, but as a great public building, something every city the size of Louisville should have.
A Powerful Organization.
"We are now an association of 150 business men, a corporation absolute.
Not a member has refused to advance money and give time for the success of the shows. There is no property investment; no money is put in with the hope of a return. The object of this interest; civic pride, pure and simple, is alone responsible for the venture; hence its success. We hope in a short time to increase our membership to 250.
Though no campaign of solicitation is being conducted, one of the most recently acquired members is Mr. John M.
Cabell. He did not know new members were being taken, but our corporation articles authorize a membership of 250, and this number has probably been reached before the next exhibition. One of the pathetic incidents of the past few weeks lay in the election of the late Zack Phelps to membership. Just a few days prior to his death he had asked to become a member and had been unanimously elected. Before the certificate reached him, however, he passed away."
Advantages of Horse Show.
"There is no reason why Louisville should not have the greatest horse show in America. The interest in this class of stock in Kentucky is well known to the world, and I will not dwell on the advantages derived for city and State by these animals display. They develop, in a pronounced way, the best in the horse; they improve the tastes of any people; they bring to Louisville much of the best citizenship from elsewhere; they arouse social life; they brood the minds of our people; they fill our hotels; they are what Louisville needs."

A review of the awards at the horse show make an interesting study for the man with a penchant for figures.

John S. Bratton, of East St. Louis, Ill., leads all exhibitors in amount of money received and number of prizes—22—but Lawrence Jones, of Louisville, has more firsts—11, including two championships —than any other man. There were twenty-five exhibitors who took $100 or over in premiums, as the following table will show:
